A QUESTION ABOUT
Brown's Iron
Bitters
ANSWERED.
The question has probably been asked thousands of times, "How can Brown's Iron Bitters cure everything?" Well, it doesn't. But it does cure any disease for which a reputable physician would prescribe IRON. Physicians recognize Iron as the best restorative agent known to the profession, and inquiry of any leading chemical firm will substantiate the assertion that there are more preparations of iron than of any other substance used in medicine. This shows conclusively that iron is acknowledged to be the most important factor in successful medical practice. It is, however, a remarkable fact, that prior to the discovery of BROWN'S IRON BITTERS no perfectly satisfactory iron combination had ever been found.
BROWN'S IRON BITTERS does not injure the teeth, cause headache, or produce constipation—all other iron medicines do. BROWN'S IRON BITTERS cures Indigestion, Biliousness, Weakness, Dyspepsia, Malaria, Chills and Fevers, Tired Feeling, General Debility, Pain in the Side, Back or Limbs, Headache and Neuralgia—for all these ailments Iron is prescribed daily.
BROWN'S IRON BITTERS, however, does not cure in a minute. Like all other thorough medicines, it acts slowly. When taken by men the first symptom of benefit is renewed energy. The muscles then become firmer, the digestion improves, the bowels are active. In women the effect is usually more rapid and marked. The eyes begin at once to brighten; the skin clears up; healthy color comes to the cheeks; nervousness disappears; functional derangements become regular, and if a nursing mother, abundant sustenance is supplied for the child. Remember Brown's Iron Bitters is the ONLY iron medicine that is not injurious. Physicians and Druggists recommend it.

SELECT STORY.

A TRAGEDY OF EVIDENCE.

A STORY TOLD BY WILKIE COLLINS.

At that memorable period in the early history of the United States when American citizens resented the tyranny of George the Third and his Parliment by destroying a cargo of taxed tea, a Bristol trader arrived in the harbor of Boston, having one passenger on board. This person was a young Englishwoman, named Esther Calvert, daughter of a shopkeeper at Cheltenham and niece of the Captain of the ship.

Some years before her departure from England Esther had suffered from an affliction—associated with a deplorable public event—which had shaken her attachment to her native land. Free, at a later period to choose for herself, she resolved on leaving England as soon as employment could be found for her in another country. After a weary interval of expectation, the sea Captain had obtained a situation for his niece as housekeeper in the family of Mrs. Anderkin—a widow lady living in Boston.

Esther had been well practiced in domestic duties during the long illness of her mother. Intelligent, modest and sweet-tempered, she soon became a favorite with Mrs. Anderkin and the members of her young family. The children found but one fault with the new housekeeper; she dressed invariably in dismal black; and it was impossible to prevail upon her to give the cause. It was known that she was an orphan, and she had acknowledged that no relations of hers had recently died—and yet she persisted in wearing mourning. Some great grief had evidently overshadowed the life of the gentle English housekeeper.

On the day before he sailed on his homeward voyage the sea Captain called to take leave of his niece, and then asked if he could also pay his respects to Mrs. Anderkin. He was informed that the lady of the house had gone out, but that the governess would be happy to receive him. At the interview which followed they talked of Esther, and agreed so well in their good opinion of her that the Captain paid a long visit. The governess had persuaded him to tell the story of his niece's wasted life.

But he insisted on one condition.

"If we had been in England," he said, "I should have kept the matter secret for the sake of the family. Here, in America, Esther is a stranger—here she will stay—and no slur will be cast on the family name at home. But mind one thing! I trust to your honor to take no one into your confidence—excepting only the mistress of the house."

More than 100 years have passed since these words were spoken. Esther's sad story may be harmlessly told now.

In the year 1762 a young man named John Jennings, employed as a waiter at a Yorkshire inn, astonished his master by announcing that he was engaged to be married, and that he purposed retiring from business on next quarter-day. Further inquiry showed that the young woman's name was Esther Calvert, and that Jennings was greatly her inferior in social rank. Her father's consent to the marriage depended on her lover's success in rising in the world. Friends with money were inclined to trust Jennings and to help him to start a business of his own, if Miss Calvert's father would do something for the young people on his side. He made no objection and the marriage engagement was sanctioned accordingly.

One evening, when the last days of Jenning's service were drawing to an end, a gentleman on horseback stopped at the inn. In a state of great agitation he informed the landlady that he was on his way to Hull, but that he had been so frightened as to make it impossible for him to continue his journey. A highwayman had robbed him of a purse containing twenty guineas. The thief's face (as usual in those days) was concealed by a mask, and there was but one chance to bring him to justice. It was the traveler's custom to place a private mark on every gold piece that he carried with him on a journey, and the stolen guineas might possibly be traced in that way.

The landlord (one Mr. Brunell) attended on his guest at supper. His wife had only that moment told him of the robbery; and he had a circumstance to mention which might lead to the discovery of the thief. In the first place, however, he wished to ask at what time the crime had been committed. The traveled answered that he had been robbed late in the evening, just as it was beginning to get dark. On hearing this Mr. Brunell looked very much distressed.

"I have got a waiter here named Jennings," he said, "a man superior to his station in life—good manners and a fair education—in fact, a general favorite. But for some little time past I have observed that he has been rather free with his money in betting, and that habits of drinking have grown on him. I am afraid he is not worthy of the good opinion entertained of him by myself and by other persons. This evening I sent him out to get some small silver for me, giving him a guinea to change. He came back intoxicated, telling me that change was not to be had. I ordered him to bed, and then happened to look at the guinea which he had brought back. Unfortunately I had not at that time heard of the robbery, and I paid the guinea away with some other money in settlement of a tradesman's account. But this I am sure of—there was a mark on the guinea which Jennings gave back to me. It is, of course, possible that there might have been a mark (which escaped my notice) on the guinea which I took out of my purse when I sent for change."

"Or," the traveler suggested, "it may have been one of my stolen guineas given back by mistake by this drunken waiter of yours instead of the guinea handed to him by yourself. Do you think he is asleep?"

"Sure to be asleep, sir—in his condition."

"Do you object, Mr. Brunell, after what you have told me, to setting this matter at rest by searching the man's clothes?"

The landlord hesitated. "It seems hard on Jennings," he said, "if we prove to have been suspicious of him without a cause. Can you speak positively, sir, to the mark which you put on your money?"

The traveler declared that he could swear to his mark. Mr. Brunell yielded. The two went up together to the waiter's room.

Jennings was fast asleep. At the very outset of the search they found the stolen bag of money in his pocket. The guineas—nineteen in number—had a mark on each one of them, and that mark the traveler identified. After this discovery there was but one course to take. The waiter's protestations of innocence when they awoke him and accused him of the robbery were words flatly contradicted by facts. He was charged before a Magistrate with the theft of the money, and, as a matter of course, was committed for trial.

The circumstances were so strongly against him that his own friends recommended Jennings to plead guilty and appeal to the mercy of the Court. He refused to follow their advice and he was bravely encouraged to persist in that decision by the poor girl, who believed in his innocence with her whole heart. At that dreadful crisis in her life she secured the best legal assistance, and took from her little dowry the money that paid the expenses.

At the next assizes the case was tried. The proceedings before the Judge were a repetition (at great length and with more solemnity) of the proceedings before the Magistrate. No skill in cross-examination could shake the direct statements of the witnesses. The evidence was made absolutely complete by the appearance of the tradesman to whom Mr. Brunell had paid the marked guinea. The coin (so marked) was a curiosity; the man had kept it and he now produced it in Court. The Judge summed up, finding literally nothing that he could say as an honest man in favor of the prisoner. The jury returned a verdict of guilty, after a consultation which was a mere matter of form. Clearer circumstantial evidence of guilt had never been produced in the opinion of every person—but one—who was present at the trial. The sentence on Jeannings for highway robbery was, by the law of those days, death on the scaffold.

Friends were found to help Esther in the last effort that the faithful creature could now make—the attempt to obtain a commutation of the sentence. She was admitted to an interview with the Home Secretary, and her petition was presented to the King. Here, again, the indisputable evidence forbade the exercise of mercy. Esther's betrothed husband was hanged at Hull. His last words declared his innocence—with the rope around his neck.

Before a year had passed the one poor consolation that she could hope for in this world found Esther in her misery. The proof that Jennings had died a martyr to the fallibility of human justice was made public by the confession of the guilty man. Another criminal trial took place at the assizes. The landlord of an inn was found guilty of having stolen the property of a person staying in his house. It was stated in evidence that this was not his first offense. He had been habitually a robber on the highway, and his name was Brunell.

The wretch confessed that he was the masked highwayman who had stolen the bag of guineas. Riding by a nearer way than was known to the traveler, he had reached the inn first. There he found a person in trade waiting by appointment for the settlement of a bill. Not having enough money of his own about him to pay the whole amount, Brunell had made use of one of the stolen guineas, and had only heard the traveler declare that his money was marked after the tradesman had left the house. To ask for the return of the fatal guinea was more than he dared to attempt. But one other alternative presented itself. The merciless villain insured his own safety by the sacrifice of an innocent man.

After the time when the sea Captain had paid his visit at Mrs. Anderkin's house, Esther's position became subject to certain changes. One little domestic privilege followed another, so gradually and so modestly that the housekeeper found herself a loved and honored member of the family, without being able to trace by what succession of events she had risen to the new place that she occupied. The secret confided to the two ladies had been strictly preserved; Esther never even suspected that they knew the deplorable story of her lover's death. Her life, after what she had suffered, was not prolonged to a great age. She died—peacefully unconscious of the terrors of death. Her last words were spoken with a smile. She looked at the loving friends assembled round her bed, and said to them. "My dear one is waiting for me. Good-by."

Ice Cream and Ginger Cakes.

DEATH QUICKLY FOLLOWS A SINGULAR WAGER.

On Monday night of last week in the village store, at Rockland, near Coatesville, Chester county, Frank Raff, aged 18, suddenly dropped dead. He was known far and wide as a young man, who, on several occasions, had eaten various articles quickly on a wager. Some one in the company of young men challenged him to eat a plate of ice cream on time. If he succeeded in swallowing the plate of frozen cream in one and a half minutes he was not to pay for it. The cream was brought out and the crowd stood around watching the feat. In less than the stipulated time the ice cream had disappeared and the young man thought he could still further lower his record. It was noticed that he looked dazed just after the cream had been swallowed. Then he offered to wager that he could eat three large ginger cakes in a minute and a half. This was promptly taken and the cakes brought on. The gourmand squared himself and began eating and swallowing. Two cakes quickly disappeared and the third was nearly disposed of when the eater suddenly stopped, his eyes closed, hands dropped to his side and he fell to the store floor stone dead.

His body was carried home, from where he had come but a half hour before in the best of health.

300 Miles an Hour by Rail.

From the San Francisco Chronicle.

When George Stevenson asserted his ability to run passenger coaches at a speed of twelve to fifteen miles an hour, scientific and practical men deemed him fit for a lunatic asylum, but time has shown that trains may be run at a much greater velocity without materially adding to the dangers of railway travel. The flight of the fast express on the Pennsylvania Railway is a marked example of the possibilities in the way of sustaining high rates of speed. This road now runs the fastest train in America. Nine hundred and twelve miles, including seven stops are accomplished in 25½ hours, and the average time is 36.30 miles an hour. A portion of the distance is run at the rate of 75 miles an hour. At a speed of 60 miles an hour the driving wheels of the locomotive on this train make 258½ revolutions a minute. Wm. Vanderbilt's spurt of 81 miles in 61 minutes on the New York Central is declared to be the highest rate of speed ever attained in this country, but this speed was not a surprise to good engineers, many of whom are firm in the belief that 100 miles an hour will yet be accomplished on American roads.

Thirty-one years ago Col. Meiggs read a paper before the New York Farmer's Club on "Future Travelling" in which he expressed the belief that railroad cars could be safely propelled by steam at the rate of 300 miles an hour. He said: "The Emperor of Russia has taken the first great step toward what I deem the ultimatum of railroad travel. Instead of cutting what I call a mere drill through the country and going around everything in the way for a straight line, he has cut a broad way for 500 miles from St. Petersburg to Moscow. He has made it all the way 200 feet wide, so that the engineer sees everything on the road. This is part of the future—the railroad from point to point with a mathematical line; the rails ten times stronger than are now used; the locomotives on wheels of a far greater diameter; the gauge of a relative breadth the signals and times perfectly settled; the roads on both sides during the transit of trains having the gates of the walls all closed—then instead of travelling 100 miles an hour, we shall more safely travel 300 miles an hour."

One of the latest efforts at improvement in locomotives is that of a Frenchman named Estrade, who has constructed an engine which he calls La Parisienne. La Parisienne, when watered and fired, weighs 42 tons. Its driving wheels, six in number, are 8½ feet in diameter. The cylinders are outside, with valve boxes on the top. The diameter of each cylinder is 18¼ inches and the length of stroke is 2 feet and 3½ inches. This engine is built for high speed, and will carry a pressure of 200 pounds to the square inch above the atmosphere, or an absolute pressure of 215 pounds. Estrade's engine is designed to run at the average rate of 78 miles an hour.

Prosperity and Politics.

Accepting the dry-goods trade in this city as "a pretty fair barometer of the country's prosperity," the Tribune is gratified to learn that "large and numerous sales are now reported by New York merchants generally," and that "the business also is well distributed and payments are unusually prompt." And it adds that "this pleasing condition of affairs could not be if the country to-day were not in much better shape than it has been for a long time."

This frank admission of a palpable fact does not agree with the dire prophecies of evil to the business interests of the country in case the Democrats were intrusted with the control of the Government which the Tribune and other Republican organs indulged in two years ago. These predictions were equally ungenerous and absurd, inasmuch as the Democrats are quite as much interested as are their political opponents in the business prosperity of the country, while ten years out of the last twelve of Republican rule had been marked by serious business depression and Labor troubles. But the Democratic party has now been in power for a year and a half and has an assured lease of two years and a half more, with a bright prospect of a long tenure, and yet Mr. Blaine's New York organ is forced to admit, by the indications of renewed prosperity on all sides, that the country is to-day "in much better shape than it has been for a long time."

We are not disposed to copy the extreme partisanship of our Republican neighbors, and claim that the bountiful crops, the favorable condition of trade, the increased earnings of both Capital and Labor and the renewed confidence of the people are all due to the party power. We simply recall the prophecies of disaster and note the admission of their failure by way of instruction to the people when next the Republicans shall appeal to them—as they are sure to do—to readmit their gray old rats to the public cheese in order to "protect the business interests."

J. H. Mercer wishes to make an assertion, which he can back with a positive guarantee. It is all about Acker's Blood Elixir. He claims for it superior merits over all other remedies of its kind, and guarantees for it a positive and sure cure for Rheumatism, Syphillis, and all blood disorders, it frees the skin from spots and disease, and leaves the complexion clear Ask him about it.

Over one million boxes of Acker's Dyspepsia Tablets sold in the past twelve months, purely upon their merits. Why suffer with Chronic Constipation, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Sick Headache, Heartburn, and Female troubles, when J. H. Mercer offers you relief and positive cure in the Dyspepsia Tablets. He sells them on a guarantee.

There are scores of persons who are suffering from some form of blood disorder or skin disease, such as Scrofula, Boils, etc., etc. After a practical test, J. H. Mercer asserts that Acker's Blood Elixir will certainly cure all such diseases, including Syphillis and Rheumatism. It is not a patent nostrum, but a scientific preparation, he guarantees it.

Beaver For Prohibition.

Gen. Beaver has returned to Pennsylvania and has given a new direction to his canvass. He declares himself boldly for the prohibition cause and says there is only one way to boom it—the way of the Republican State platform. That it may be seen no injustice is done Gen. Beaver by this report we copy from the two leading Republican newspapers of Pittsburg their accounts of an interview with him.

The Chronicle Telegraph, the Republican afternoon paper, declares that he said: "The prohibition plank in the Republican platform? When that plank was put into our platform I took it for granted that the party meant what it said. And as regards the Prohibition party, the only way in which temperance can be accomplished in this State is by the principle set forth in the plank in the Republican platform. I myself accept that platform as verity."

The Commercial Gazette, the Republican morning paper, says that when he was asked, "What do you think of Wolf's attitude towards the Prohibition plank in the Republican platform?" Gen. Beaver said: "I think that not a Republican paper in the State should allow Wolfe's name to be mentioned in it. The newspapers have made him think that he is a bigger man than he really is. I do not care to discuss Wolfe's attitude, as it would only tend to exaggerate his importance. The Republican party is not afraid of him."

In discussing the Republican platform the General said: I take it for granted that the Republicans were honest in embodying the temperance plank in their platform. I believe that is the only practical way the Prohibitionists can ever boom the cause of temperance in this State I propose to make a thorough canvass of the State on that theory and if I am elected I will endeavor to carry out the principles embodied in the platform."

The Pension Issue.

From the Washington Democrat.

In all the Republican platforms adopted thus far there is evidence of an intention to make an issue this fall upon President Cleveland's pension vetoes. We guess the President can stand it. Never before in the history of Congress were so many pension bills as during the session just closed. The President vetoed some eighty of the most flagrant of these raids upon the treasury. His vetoes were not in a solitary instance based upon technical objections. Every one of them went to the legitimate merit of the particular case. It is unnecessary to remind our readers of the straightforward, and in some instances justly indignant, terms in which his vetoes were worded. He arraigned Congress for its faithlessness in passing bills indiscriminately and without investigating the facts. Patiently he did work that Congress was elected to do, and when his vetoes were given to the public the nation applauded the courageous manner in which he stood between deserters, imposters, and frauds and the funds intended for the disabled soldiers of the Union. So strongly were his vetoes entrenched in right that, with one or two exceptions neither the Republican Senate nor the Democratic House dared attempt to override them.

If the Republicans insist on making an issue of the pension vetoes, perhaps they will publish some of them. That would be an honest way to attack them For instance, the veto of a bill for the relief of a man with sore eyes, brought on by chronic diarrhœa which developed seven years after the patriot's desertion in 1864, would make great campaign material. And yet it is no exaggeration of the bogus disabilities sought to be relieved by many of the vetoed bills.

This ado about the President's vetoes must not be charged to the heroes who fought to preserve the Union. They repudiate it. They resent being paraded as eternally swooping down on the treasury in order to be assured of the nation's gratitude. Through their representative body at the national encampment of the Grand Army in San Francisco last month they emphatically sat down upon a proposition favoring the passage of bill to give a pension of $8 a month to every surviving soldier or sailor of the war, whether disabled or not. The vote on the proposition stood 88 for it to 327 against it. The eighty-six probably were the vote-seeking politicians present, while the majority was representative of the almost universal sentiment of the non-office holding survivors of the civil war.

WASHINGTON LETTER

[From our Regular Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 27, 1886.

The President and his family have returned to the White House where they are spending their time very quietly. They take an almost daily drive to the country house, overlooking Washington, which the President recently bought. The heavy rectangular stone mansion has been thoroughly remodeled and when completed will make an attractive country home, if indeed the rapid growth of Washington will allow it to remain long in the country.

Life at the White House at present is uneventful—there will be no entertainments until the opening of the regular season when the usual number of receptions and state dinners will be given. The President will begin the preparation of his annual message at once, so as to get it outlined at least before Congress comes back. He has few visitors now and no pressing business, so that he can take as much time as he pleases for his message. Meanwhile the heads of the Departments are preparing the data which he will need in his review of their operations during the first year of his administration It is needless to say that the bare statement of the facts will make an admirable showing for all the Departments. Everybody who has anything to do with them knows that they never were more honestly, economically, ably, and let it be added with emphasis, courteously, administered before.

The "season" this year will short, but it promises to be brilliant. The President, it is said, is not fond of general society. He was evidently ill at ease if not actually bored at some of the Diplomatic and State dinners which official etiquette required him to give last winter. Mrs. Cleveland, however, is fond of society and society is thoroughly in love with Mrs. Cleveland and her social tastes may perhaps prove a foil to Mr. Cleveland's recluse disposition. Mrs. Cleveland will be sought after and invited here, there and everywhere; but she will be able, as mistress of the White House, to accept very few invitations. The President cannot accept invitations to dinners or parties where he is likely to meet one of the diplomatic corps; for the President to dine out with one Minister of a foreign nation would be to insult all the other representatives and cause each and every one to write polite letters to their home governments, informing them of the insult offered their sovereigns or rulers. Here the Diplomatic corps is invited as a body. It is generally known here by people versed in society rules that if the President is invited no foreign representative is to be invited. President Arthur loved to go out to dinner parties, and he always was enabled to tell beforehand who was to compose the party. Cleveland has never had occasion to inquire because he has never accepted invitations outside his cabinet. Whether Mrs. Cleveland will accept invitations or give little entertainments is one of the problems not yet solved, but anxiously awaiting solution. She has made many friends here already, and every one wants to see more of her, for she is a very lovable woman. Mrs. Cleveland will most likely begin her Saturday afternoon receptions as soon as it gets cool, but those are more of an official character than social, and do not count with society here.

While the social season has not strictly begun, it may be said, in another sense, that Washington is never out of season. It is pretty full the year around. People begin to come in from the seashore and mountains the latter part of August and are all home by the first week in September. Washington has become a very popular Autumn resort. People going south for the winter always pass through here. Each year they tarry longer. They begin to leave the summer resorts earlier and delay their trips to Florida later. The custom is becoming common to stop in Washington the first of October on their way south, and to stay several weeks. The traveling public have discovered the attractions of Washington as an autumnal and early winter resort. Before these birds of passage have flown, the social and political season has begun. This brings in a different set of people representing the wealth and fashion of all parts of the Union: those who are interested in legislation before Congress and many others of a literary or dilettante turn who come to make a daily study of life and manners, as represented at the only great American capital. About the time Congress adjourns the procession of spring and summer travel sets in. They are not as numerous or as wealthy as the people who visit Washington in the fall and winter. They are those who take advantage of excursion rates,—country people, brides and grooms, and organizations of various kinds. These find as much pleasure in the city with its many attractions as the city people do in the country in summer.

A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming 'smaller by degrees, and beautifully less.' I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. ROBERTS, East Wilson, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

AYER'S Sugar-Coated Cathartic PILLS.

If the Liver becomes torpid, if the bowels are constipated, or if the stomach fails to perform its functions properly, use Ayer's Pills. They are invaluable.

For some years I was a victim to Liver Complaint, in consequence of which I suffered from General Debility and Indigestion. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills restored me to perfect health.—W. T. Brightney, Henderson, W. Va.

For years I have relied more upon Ayer's Pills than anything else, to my bowels. These Pills are mild in action, and do their work thoroughly. I have used them, with good effect, in cases of Rheumatism and Dyspepsia.—G. F. Miller, Attleborough, Mass.

Ayer's Pills cured me of Stomach and Liver troubles, from which I had suffered for years. I consider them the best pills made, and would not be without them. —Morris Gates, Downsville, N. Y.

I was attacked with Billious Fever, which was followed by Jaundice, and was so dangerously ill that my friends despaired of my recovery. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and soon regained my customary strength and vigor.—John C. Pattison, Lowell, Nebraska.

Last spring I suffered greatly from a troublesome humor on my side. In spite of every effort to cure this eruption, it increased until the flesh became entirely raw. I was troubled, at the same time, with Indigestion, and distressing pains in

The Bowels.

By the advice of a friend I began taking Ayer's Pills. In a short time I was free from pain, my food digested properly, the sores on my body commenced healing, and, in less than one month, I was cured. —Samuel D. White, Atlanta, Ga.

I have long used Ayer's Pills, in my family, and believe them to be the best pills made.—S. C. Darden, Darden, Miss.

My wife and little girl were taken with Dysentery a few days ago, and I at once began giving them small doses of Ayer's Pills, thinking I would call a doctor if the disease became any worse. In a short time the bloody discharges stopped, all pain went away, and health was restored. —Theodore Esling, Richmond, Va.

D. LANGELL'S ASTHMA AND CATARRH REMEDY.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

Having struggled 20 years between life and death with ASTHMA or PHTHISIC, treated by eminent physicians, and receiving no benefit, I was compelled during the last 5 years of my illness to sit on my chair day and night gasping for breath. My sufferings were beyond description. In despair I experimented on myself by compounding roots and herbs and inhaling the medicine thus obtained. I fortunately discovered this WONDERFUL CURE FOR ASTHMA AND CATARRH, warranted to relieve the most stubborn case of ASTHMA IN FIVE MINUTES, so that the patient can lie down to rest and sleep comfortably. Please read the following condensed extracts from unsolicited testimonials, all of recent date:

Oliver V. R. Holmes, San Jose, Cal., writes: "I find the remedy all and even more than represented. I receive instantaneous relief."

E. M. Carson, A. M., Warren, Kansas, writes: "Was treated by eminent physicians of this country and Germany; tried the climate of different states—nothing afforded relief like your preparation."

T. E. Gates, County Treasurer, Philadelphia, Miss., writes: "Have used the Remedy. Would not live without it. Every one that uses it recommends it."

'. B. Phelps, P. M., Griggs, Ohio, writes: "Suffered with asthma 40 years. Your medicine in 3 minutes does more for me than the most eminent physician did for me in three years."

H. C. Plumpton, Joliet, Ill., writes: "Send Catarrh Remedy at once. Cannot get along without it. I find it to be the most valuable medicine I have ever tried."

Geo. W. Brady, Nelson Co., Ky., writes: "I am using the remedy. Gained 8 pounds in 3 weeks. would not be without it."

Martin Fox, Little Falls, N. Y., writes: "Find Remedy excellent. Could not live without it."

We have many other hearty testimonials of cure or relief, and in order that all sufferers from Asthma, Catarrh, Hay Fever, and kindred diseases may have an opportunity of testing the value of the Remedy we will send to any address TRIAL PACKAGE FREE OF CHARGE. Address,

The new No. 8 Wheeler & Wilson is by far superior to any other machine on the market; therefore buy the new No. 8 and you will be ahead. Will also exhibit at the Bloomsburg and Benton fairs. [2t.

Attention is directed to the advertisement of Derby's Wilkes-Barre Brush Factory in another column. They make all kinds of brushes for the innumerable uses to which brushes are applied, and its specialty is conscientious, thorough work, a feature that is lamentably lacking in the ordinary stock now-a-days. Mr. Derby guarantees his prices to be lower than those of any other factory for the same kind of goods, and it is only fair for dealers to investigate and give him a chance. Home manufactories ought to be patronized as much as possible.

The "Eastern Question" occupies more space in the telegraphic news from abroad than any other, except the Irish Question. It will be gratifying to the majority of us, who are satisfied that we do not know all about it, to learn of an opportunity to hear it explained by a man of distinguished ability, long a resident of Turkey and founder of the American College in Constantinople, Cyrus Hamlin, D.D., LL. D. It will be interesting to see and hear a man who has taken such an active part in the public life of the East, and represented the United States so worthily abroad. His lecture will be given in the Opera House on Friday, October 8, 8 p. m.

Mr. Sherman F. Peacock and Miss Edith Eshleman were united in the bonds of wedlock on Thursday of last week, at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. E. C. Eshleman, on Seventh street. Rev. Dr. Mitchell performed the ceremony in the presence of the relatives of the contracting parties. Many handsome gifts were bestowed upon the fair bride by her admiring friends, and the young couple start out together on the journey of life accompanied by the congratulations and good wishes of all who know them. After the company had partaken of the inviting refreshments prepared for the occasion, Mr. and Mrs. Peacock took the cars for New York and other cities, for a ten days' tour.

Stand by those who stand by you.

We have now received a large assortment in Mens' Youths' and Boys Clothing. Call and examine before you go elsewhere and you will be satisfied that the right place to buy your Clothing is at David Lowenberg's Popular Clothing Store.

Last Saturday afternoon, about 2 o'clock, Arthur Rittenhouse and Frank Gruber were drowned in Fishingcreek, near the mouth of Green creek. The former was 18 years old and was a nephew of C. W. Low, of C. W. Low, of Orangeville, with whom he lived, and the latter, a son of David Gruber, and was about 12 years old. There were no eye witnesses to the sad affair, so that it is mere conjecture as to how it happened. There was a hunting match on that day and the Gruber boy was carrying the game bag for Arthur. They were on the island and poled over to the main land in a boat to get a drink of water. They started back for the island, when the boat began to fill, and the younger boy becoming alarmed leaped out into deep water. He could not swim but Rittenhouse was a good swimmer, and so leaped after him. This much was seen by a younger brother of Gruber, who ran home, over a mile distant, and told his father that Frank was in the water. Mr. Gruber went down the stream and after some search two hats were found, and later on the bodies were recovered. It is supposed that Rittenhouse was seized with cramp. It was a very sad affair and cast a gloom over the whole community.

"We have got 'em on the list."

All the pretty new styles, all the new shape. Come, look, and you will be surprised at the Fall and Winter stock of DAVID LOWENBERG.

Columbia County Fair.

The Columbia County Agricultural Society will give its thirty-first annual exhibition on its grounds in Bloomsburg October 13—16 '86. The attractions this year will be superior to any of past years. A fine new exhibition building has been erected fifty by three hundred feet, surmounted by a tower eighty-two feet high, the whole covered with a slate roof and beautifully painted. Additional accommodations have been provided for cattle on exhibition and a new and suitable ladies' toilet and waiting room has been erected. The track has been improved by still further raising the outside on the turns and the premiums have been revised and in many instances increased. Ample arrangements have been made for the comfort of visitors and exhibitors. Excursion rates on all the railroads during the Fair.

Note.—Bicycle Tournament and race on Friday from 12 to 1 p. m.

"My only Family Medicine."

I have been a user of Simmons Liver Regulator for many years, having made it my own Family Medicine. It is a pure, good and reliable medicine. My mother before me was very partial to it.

"I find the Regulator very safe harmless and reliable as a Family Medicine, and have used it for any disorder of the system and found it to act like a charm. I believe if it was used in time it would prove a great preventive of sickness. I have often recommended it to my friends and shall continue to do so.

The Fund Acknowledged.

Messrs. Robbins & Peacock have received the following letter in acknowledgement of the money raised here for the relief of Charleston:

City of Charleston,
Executive Department, Sept. 23, 1886.

Gentlemen:—I am obliged to you for your valued favor of 20th, with its money enclosure, of $119 35 contributed by the citizens of Bloomsburg, Pa., for the relief of sufferers by the earthquake in this city and vicinity, and beg to assure you of our thanks for this evidence of your considerate sympathy. We have been roughly handled, but with such a bond of American citizenship as we have about us, we shall in time emerge from our great disaster. Resp.,

Wm. A. Courtenay,
Mayor.

Oculist and Aurist.

Dr. J. H. Moore of Pittston, late of Philadelphia, will visit the Exchange Hotel in Bloomsburg every two weeks on Saturday from 9 a. m. to 2 p. m. or later, beginning Saturday Aug. 28th for the purpose of treating all diseases of the Eye, Ear and Throat, fitting glasses etc. Dr. Moore is a graduate of Jefferson Medical College of several years standing, and has had thorough training in his specialties in the hospitals of Philadelphia. The Dr. can furnish references from some of the leading physicians and specialists of Philadelphia and from physicians in Pittston, Tunkhannock, and other towns of that vicinity.

Montour County Fair.

The Sixteenth Annual Fair of the Montour County Agricultural Society will be held at Danville, Pa., Oct. 6th—9th, 86. The premium list is large and liberal and competition is free to all. There will be three day's good races, besides numerous other attractions, and every effort will be put forward to make the fair a successful one. A fine display of blooded stock is expected, as well as fine exhibits in other classes. Good music will be in attendance. Excursion rates can be secured on all railroads during the fair.

Sheriff's Sales.

Sheriff Smith sold the following properties at the Court House on Monday, September 27:

Property of Emma L. and John A. Wands in Hemlock to Elizabeth Creber for $250.

Property of Espy Mfg. Co., in Espy, to F. C. Angle for $350.

Property of Samuel Neyhard, in Bloomsburg, to N. B. Creasy for $1,500.

A nice line of Furnishing Goods—newest in design in Shirts, Collars and Neckties—just received at D. Lowenberg's.

The Williamsport Commercial College, the advertisement of which appears in another column, is one of the most successful institutions in the State. It has always been attended by a large number of earnest and ambitious students, and the kindly words of praise that come from its graduates speak volumes for the management. Not only has this college been successful in securing a large patronage, but it has been remarkably successful in the placing of so many of its graduates in good positions.

The Old Way and the New.

The Old Way—Rock the baby in a sap-trough, carry it to town in a potato basket, give it salts and senna for a physic, wash it with soft soap and water; when sick dose it to death with harsh medicines, and then say: "The Lord claimed it." The New Way—Use Dr. Hand's Remedies for Children, which have been tested in his practice for 15 years. They are pure, safe, and a God-send to parents and children. Dr. Hand's remedies are: Teething Lotion, a wonderfully soothing and harmless lotion to bathe the gums of teething babes. Colic Cure, promptly relieves colic and soothes cross babes without stupefying them. Pleasant Physic, for children and adults, cures constipation. Worm Elixir, which is combined with a purge. Cough and Croup Medicine, has no superior in its line. Diarrhoea Mixture, cures when everything else fails. General Tonic, gives tone and appetite to weakly children. Chafing Powder, heals sore and chafed babies in a day. Price of each, only 25 cts. For sale by C. A. Kleim, druggist,

Sunday School Convention.

The sixth Sunday school convention of Fishingcreek township was held Sept. 25, 1886 in the M. E. church at Stillwater.

Revs. Houtz, Beon and Kinter; E. M. Laubach, Eli Robbins, H. W. Kline, I. N. Connor and J. Sutton took part in the discussion of the following subjects, with the substance of thoughts suggested.

1. "The true mission of the S. S." The object is a definite one—to teach religion—to make the child acquainted with God, as He has revealed himself in the Bible. To prevent evil rather than to cure it, by filling the tender mind with religious truths, and impressing the heart with principles that shall lead them to Christ, and lay the foundation of a Christian life.

2. "The essential qualifications of S. S. Supt. and teachers" They should be devotedly religious, have the Sunday school cause at heart—in deep sympathy with childhood and have good business tact, but as these qualifications are rare, the best talents should be selected approximating to this standard.

3. "How to retain the older scholars." By making the services interesting and attractive, by grading and promotion, and by utilizing the gifts of the scholars as they advance, giving them positions as teachers or officers, and thus identifying them with the interests of the school, and the corps of S. S. workers.

4. "Should lesson leaves be used without the Bible?" While all of the speakers negatived the question, they differed as to the best mode of procedure. Some were for using the leaves alone but contended that as the lessons on the leaves were founded upon, and drawn from the Bible, they were still using the Bible. Others thought that the answering of the questions by reading them from the leaves required no study, and becomes a mere routine without imparting any lasting knowledge; others again claimed that the more advanced classes should be required to study the lessons on the leaves but recite them from memory. All thought them a great help.

5 "Duty of parents in relation to the S. S." Should assist children in the study of their lessons through the week. Should see that they are prepared for school in time; that they should attend with them, and encourage the Supt. by their presence and help; that it is a church work and every member of the church should feel interested in it.

6. "How should temperance be taught in Sunday schools?" Every Supt., teacher and officer should be temperate, and on occasions especially appointed for the purpose, or when any thing in the lesson suggests the thought, they should teach the nature and consequences of intemperance.

7. How much of the S. S. time, should be devoted to music?" A voluntary song before opening, was suggested, then at the opening and closing, and as much time as can be spared, without interfering with the regular work.

The next meeting will be held at Zion in December, notice of which will be given in due season.

What are the fashions in dress-stuffs?

That is what everybody wants to know. To follow or not, no matter; but what are they?

We haven't seen a tenth ourselves. We can't show you a tenth as yet. But we've seen enough to feel less embarrassed in judging of any one. We know the drift. Let us see if we can tell it.

What has Mr. Bunting brought from Paris? Not a word about prices. They are high enough, no doubt. Whatever the maker chooses to ask we pay if he approves the stuff. Economy doesn't belong to this part of the business.

There were signs in early summer that roughness was going out of dress-stuffs. It hasn't gone out. It has changed its guises. There were signs that colors were going to be less conspicuous. So they are; but not inconspicuous. Striking effects abound and nothing is too unlooked-for except the over-bright. We see no sign of favor for dazzling colors as yet.

We couldn't give you these useful general hints a week ago, nor a day ago. We had to wait for the stuffs. We now go on to illustrate with passing glances at individual fabrics, not enough to guide you at all, but enough to confirm the general outline given above and dispose you to wait with patience till the stuffs themselves are got out of the hurlyburly.

Let her who supposes that roughness is done with turn to a solid moss of mohair half-an-inch thick: to be used for trimming perhaps, but who knows we sha'n't see a waist of it?

Cashmere plaids may answer for moderation in color. These are blocks of scarcely distinguishable shades—they need to be blocks—what they lack in force they make up in area. But there are gleams of rainbow brightness and gold through tangles of overlying shade.

Combinations rule. Diagonals, herring-bones, twills. But novelties—nobody stops to think of the texture. Therefore the ridges are larger and farther apart. Plain stuffs are not plain; plain only by contrast.

Now that look at a score or two of stuffs, enough to keep you from buying! Take them as they happen to come:

Plain stuff with massive border of wool and mohair, cut and uncut velvet set off with beads.

Persian colors in blocks set into wide stripes of plush.

Stripes of Persian figures alternating with plush.

Silk, mohair and wool disguised together; the colors blending, contending.

Diagonal covered half-over with stripes of bobbin over-work of mohair and silk and color.

Zig-zag fabric, bits of three-corner color.

French imitation of Scotch effects in cheviot; the Scotch outdone in coarseness and richness combined.

Great stripes of Persian silk in masses of hanging ends.

Plaids full of shadowy dots.

Camel's-hair heavily covered with moon-stripe mohair.

Mohair tangle, porcupine plush, if you please, with glimpses of gorgeous silk underneath.

Herringbone covered half-over with stripes and plaids in wild disorder of plush and tangle and color.

Fine herringbone stuff with simple plaids of bright silk.

Wanamaker's.

Figures of uncut loops of wool with gleaming outlines of mohair; sometimes with mohair interspersed.

Massive stripes of long silk loops, half-an-inch long or more, thick enough to hang like a shaggy fur, and bright with Persian colors.

Soft wicking of mohair, innumerable bushy tails, on a plain woolen stuff.

Silver silk interspersed in masses of plush, apparently a notion derived from silver-beaver in furs a year or two ago.

Color-plaid of silk plush on wool diagonals.

Herringbone ground with double plaid of fine plush color-stripes, clusters of stripes, bright silk peeping out between.

Cloth covered with stripes of mohair tangle with over-work of mohair cord between.

Cameo effects in plush of Persian color.

Walls of Troy in cut and uncut silk with variations.

Great broken plaids in cut and uncut velvet on plaid woolen stuff.

Color over-plaids of plush on fine-wool color plaids: the over-plaids matching the under; not promiscuous.

Heavy fringes and other ropy devices of mohair wicking woven on herringbone; colors mixed, interlacing, plain.

Wide diagonal, stripes of shaggy out-hanging matted wool.

Serge more or less covered with net-work of mohair cords in zig-zags, spirals, curves, all-over, in stripes, in clusters.

Stripes of nothing but beads, jet beads on black and colored fabrics.

Blocks of Persian colors and figures on stripes of silk plush.

Tiger brindles of Persian colors.

Herringbone stuff with stripes and stars of tangled silk.

Plush bar-stripes with shining beads and bobbins and loops of bright silk.

Bar-stripes of plush with silk peeping through set off with now and then an iridescent bead.

Doeskin covered with shaggy stripes of silk or mohair.

Fine Persian figures in silk on wool, with massive stripes of plush.

Long shaggy stripes of mohair, with merging colors on camel's-hair.

But—there has got to be an end of words—if we haven't seen a tenth we may as well stop here today.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Distress After Eating.—This result of indigestion will no longer be experienced if Simmons Liver Regulator is taken after each meal. It is such a good digester, and so mild and pleasant in its effect that it is used by many, after a hearty meal, to insure good digestion. The Regulator does not nauseate or irritate the stomach, but corrects acidity, dispels foul gases, allays irritation, and assists the stomach in its digestion.

The secret of successful advertising is to tell the truth. When we say that Dreydoppel's Borax Soap is the best and cheapest soap you can use for all purposes, it is a plain statement of fact, and the best way for you to satisfy yourself is to try a pound. [sept.24-4t.

To Preserve Natural Flowers.—Dip the flowers in melted paraffine, withdrawing them quickly. The liquid should be only just hot enough to maintain its fluidity and the flowers should be dipped one at a time, held by the stocks and moved about for an instant to get rid of air bubbles. Fresh cut flowers, free from moisture, make excellent specimens in this way. If you would preserve your health and invigorate your entire system use Perrine's Pure Barley Malt Whiskey. For sale by druggists and all dealers. [eow.

Why Is It that the sale of Hood's Sarsaparilla continues at such a rapidly increasing rate? It is,— 1st: Because of the positive curative value of Hood's Sarsaparilla itself.

2d: Because of the conclusive evidence of remarkable cures effected by it, unsurpassed and seldom equalled by any other medicine. Send to C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass., for book containing many statements of cures.

James R. Osgood is coming to America for a brief vacation.

Mrs. Custer is writing the life of her husband, the general.

An illustrated edition of the poems of Paul Hayne is in preparation.

W. D. Howells is the guest of Stilson Hutchins at Lake Winnipesaukee.

Miss Emma E. Brown is writing the closing pages of a "Life of James Russell Lowell."

Edward Fuller, of Boston, will publish his third novel, "Theodore Trent," next spring.

Thomas Sharp, of The Baltimore Sun, is writing a history of the Confederate navy.

Mrs. Hancock has prepared a volume of reminiscences of the late general which will soon be published.

Bill Nye will soon publish, through Davis & Co., a volume of his short sketches, under the title of "Remarks."

Professor McMaster has written a volume on Benjamin Franklin for the "American Men of Letters Series."

Col. John Hay's long-promised life of Abraham Lincoln is to begin as a serial in The Century for November.

The next volume of the "Eminent Women Series" will be "Margaret of Angoleme," by Miss A. Mary F. Robinson.

The publishers of Mr. Haggard's story, "King Solomon's Mines," says that 35,000 copies have already been sold.

Charlotte Dunning, the author of "Upon a Cast," is preparing a new story of metropolitan life entitled, "A Step Aside."

Mr. Edwin A. Abbey's edition of "She Stoops to Conquer, with its prologue by Austin Dobson, will soon appear.

We are soon to have a new book from Robert Louis Stevanson, entitled "The Merry Men, and Other Tales and Fables."

Ben: Perley Poore's book, "Social Reminiscences of Sixty Years in the National Metropolis," will soon be ready for publication.

Mrs. A. G. Paddock has written a novel based upon Mormon life and character, the title of which is "The Outlaws of the Great Basin."

The sister of Rev. E. P. Roe, Miss Mary A. Roe, has written another novel, entitled "Left in the Wilderness," which will be brought out shortly.

Mrs. Frank Leslie, who has been interviewed by The Pall Mall Gazette, says that she lives the life of a man without a man's enjoyment.

Victorien Sardou, the French dramatist, besides being engaged on a drama for the Porte St. Martin, is at work on a new comedy for the Paris Vaudeville theatre.

Grant Allen's forthcoming novel, "In All Shades," is a melodramatic story of Trinidad, the title referring to the complexion resulting from the intermixture of races.

Henry Cabot Lodge, of Boston, is writing the life of George Washington, and Professor Moses Colt Tyler the life of Patrick Henry for the "American Statesman Series."

Thomas Hardy, the English novelist, who has nearly completed his new novel, "The Woodlanders," is said to have in his mind a "tragical little story," upon which he will shortly begin work.

The Lowell Citizen is watching to see if Dr. Holmes is still an American. Says that paper: "If he publishes a book abusing all the men who entertained him, we shall know that he is quite English."

Prentice Mulford is now editing an interesting and peculiar monthly periodical in Boston, entitled the "White Cross Library," which is devoted to a new school of metaphysics, and already, in its fifth number, has excited considerable discussion and interest.

FACTS WORTH KNOWING.

Red ants will never be found in closets or drawers if a small bag of sulphur is kept in these places.

To harden cast iron, mix one-half pint of oil of vitriol and two ounces of saltpetre in three gallons of clean water. Heat the iron to a cherry red, and dip as usual.

When larger flower pots are used there will be more leaves than flowers. Often plants do not bloom because, having so much space, their strength is expended in forming roots and leaves.

It has been discovered by a Chicago physician that suburban life is a powerful provocative of dyspepsia. Men are like animals, and must eat their meals quietly and leisurely to secure a perfect flow of the gastric juice.

It is said that watercress destroys the toxic principle of tobacco without destroying its other qualities. If this information can be relied on, smokers have only to moisten their tobacco with the juice of water cresses and they can enjoy a harmless smoke.

To cut glass jars, fill the jar with lard oil to where you want to cut the jar; then heat an iron rod or bar to red heat; immerse it in the oil. The unequal expansion will check the jar all round at the surface of the oil, and you can lift off the top part.

The use of morphia by physicians to suspend pain which they can not cure is said to have became an abuse. A Pittsburgh man has been found to have 1,040 hypodermic injection punctures in his body. Many are said to take the injections for the soothing effect when nothing in particular ails them, and thus fall into a habit worse than drinking, which is the natural consequence.

BIG STORIES.

San Francisco papers are advertising a rat and squirrel poison that is said to have the excellent qualities of killing the animal, drying up its insides and tanning the skin.

A Coulonge correspondent of The Bryson Equity alleges that a young marksman of that place at 500 yards struck squarely the head of a pin stuck in the centre of a common envelope.—Toronto Globe.

Canadian fishermen at Cape Sable are having trouble with sharks. One fisherman out in a small boat was obliged to call for help to beat off a huge maneater that was determined to capsize the skiff and eat its occupant.

A statement going the rounds of the press is to the effect that J. W. Donaldson, of Vincennes, Ind., after years of experimenting, has succeeded in raising chickens covered with long white hair instead of feathers.

A land turtle got in front of Jacob Crider's self-binding reaper, near Greencastle, Pa., had a hind leg cut off, and was taken up and bound in a sheaf of wheat, where he was found by the threshers seven weeks later. The place where the leg had been cut off was nicely healed.

Mary J. Ayers, a young girl of Beernerville, N. Y., is said to possess the peculiarities of a turtle, owing to her mother having been bitten by a turtle shortly before the birth of the child. The girl, it is said, has under each ear a protuberance like a turtle shell and a similar mark on her back. She is unusually homely, and in walking the motions of her arms involuntary correspond to those of her lower limbs. The Blairstown press is responsible for the story.

THE STAGE.

Margaret Mather has stirred Denver as heartily as she did San Francisco.

Clara Morris' opening play at the Union Square theatre, Oct. 4, will be "Article 47."

Herbert Archer and his charming wife Belle are in San Francisco. They open with Osmond Tearle in "Kenneth Gordon."

Mrs. Langtry's first appearance in her coming American engagement will be at the Fifth Avenue theatre, New York, on Oct. 4, in "Peril."

W. J. Scanlon's new song in "Shane-na-Lawn," "Gathering the Myrtle with Mary," has become very popular and is encored again and again.

A theatrical syndicate has been formed in London to produce "The Little Tycoon" there and in the provinces. Miss Ethel McAlpin will play the leading role.

FROM CATFISH CENTERS.

Indians about Shasta, Cal., believe that catfish were put into the river by white men for the special purpose of killing off the Indians. They eat all other kinds, but throw back into the river all the catfish they catch.

Gotleib Beck, of Dubuque, Ia., stepped on the head of a catfish lying in his back yard a few weeks ago, one of the horns of the fish piercing his foot, which swelled enormously, causing him great pain. It is feared he may lose his life.

John Rutledge, of Ogle county, Ills., caught a catfish nine inches long on a hook. Then another catfish four feet two inches long came by and swallowed the nine-inch fish. The monster was pulled out on the bank. It weighed eighty-one pounds.

John Hodge, of Mount Vernon, Ills., went bathing in the Little Muddy creek and discovered a catfish three feet long, which had tried to swim through a hollow log and had stuck fast. He landed the fish after a hard struggle. It weighed between sixty and seventy pounds.

GENERAL SPORTING NOTES.

Hanlan predicts that Beach will beat Gaudaur.

Inspector B. has won the Dwyers $33,700 this season.

Pierre Lorillard's colors will be again seen on the turf next year.

Mills, of Liverpool, has raised the twenty-four hour bicycle record to 273 miles.

The proposed fight between Jack Fogarty and Joe Ellingsworth is off for the present.

Jacob Schaefer, the champion billiard player, has opened a billiard hall in St. Louis.

L. E. Myers, the famous runner, is now writing tickets for Harry Snedeker, the well-known bookmaker.

It is said that no less than seventeen trotters have trotted a mile in 2:20 or less on the Rochester track this season.

A glove contest between Denny Kelleher and Jack Fogarty will take place near Boston in the latter part of October.

After Wallace Ross returns home from England he will make preparations for swimming the whirlpool of Niagara Falls.

A prominent turf writer alleges that the betting element among the patrons of horse racing is growing less and less every year.

Suffolk park is to hold a trotting meeting, beginning Oct. 19, and the following week Belmont park will hold a four days' trotting and pacing carnival.

The London Referee accepts Johnson's 100-yard record, 9 4-5s., as genuine, and adds that it is a performance that many have tried to accomplish, but failed.

Robert Renfrew, of Boston, says he is ready to meet Duncan C. Ross or Charles Walsh in a mounted broad sword contest in or near Boston for $500 a side.

Wolf Rendoff, the heavy-weight boxer, who fought Jem Smith and Jack Knifton for the championship, has returned from England and is ready to meet any man in America.

Paddy Ryan writes from Chicago that if his glove contest ends satisfactorily he will be ready to fight either John L. Sullivan or Frank Heard to a finish, with hard gloves.

Budd Doble, the famous trainer of Goldsmith Maid, has secured a stallion named Bonnie McGregor, which he claims to be the coming trotter, and will give Maud S. a push for her record.

BASEBALL GOSSIP.

Myers, of the Kansas City's, has made but one hit in twelve games.

The Syracuse Stars have engaged six new men from the Southern league.

Bobby Matthews' arm is all right again and he wants to pitch against the Cincinnatis.

The New York Mail and Express calls Radbourn, of the Bostons, the "great twirler."

The Detroits will play at Pittsburg on Oct. 13, 14 and 15, and Chicago will play there on Oct. 24.

The releasing and engaging of players by western Association clubs is going on at a lively rate.

The New York papers have given up all hope of the New Yorks securing either first or second place.

Kansas City denies any connection with any new association and desires to stay in the League next year.

The St. Louis Browns have the credit of shutting out more clubs than any other team in the country.

It is said that the Athletics have secured a manager for next season, but his name is withheld for the present.

The system of making a "ladies' day" at the League games was inaugurated at St. Louis when the Boston club played there.

Charley Bennett, one of the greatest catchers in the country, has fully recovered and is again supporting Baldwin behind the bat.

A league is talked of next season to include Lyons, Clyde, Geddes, Canastota, Oneida, Rome, Norwich, Little Falls and Ilion, of New York.

Glasscock now says he is perfectly contented to remain where he is, and will play with the Maroons as long as they remain in the League.

Ryan, of the Chicagos, is the best of the young hitters of the League. In his last sixteen games he has made twenty-three hits, with a total of forty, an average of .332 with the totals of .591.

There is a cry going up for a change of management in the New Yorks. This would be a wrong move in the way of reform, as baseball men say that no club has a better manager than the New York club.—New York Sun.

A club that expects to hold the lead in the League must have at least three good pitchers, according to calculation based on long experience. It is recorded that the average pitcher breaks down at the end of his fortieth game. This seems to be the case with the New York team.

Tom Johnson, who owns all of the street car lines in Indianapolis and the longest line in Cleveland, is at the head of the movement for an Association team in the latter city. He is very wealthy, and if admitted would make one of the longest headed men in the association. His son Alfred would probably manage the team.

The recent defeats of the New York club are ascribed by the papers of that city to the inconveniences of travel, loss of proper rest, the failure of the manager to present the strongest team at every game and the ineffectiveness of the pitchers. The batting and error columns, according to the scribes, can throw no light on the cause of the several defeats.

It has been claimed that the recent game in which Hecker, of the Louisvilles, made a total of fifteen bases in the seven times at bat was the greatest on record. Arthur Allison, formerly of the Forest Citys, however, says that, in 1871, while playing with the Athletics, at Cincinnati, Jack Bass, of the former team, made three home runs, a triple and a double, making a total of seventeen in the five times at the bat.

MUSICAL NOTES.

Miss Lillian Russell will join Mr. Duff's comic opera troupe in San Francisco and appear in "A Trip to Africa."

Rubinstein will personally conduct the first performance of his new Sixth Symphony in Leipsic, which will take place next November.

Prague is to have a Mozart "Cycle" in October, at which that master's operas will be presented in chronological succession.

Arditi's famous waltz, "Il Bacio," which has been a source of revenue to so many music publishers, has yielded its composer only 1,250 francs.

The Venetian composer, Angelo Tessaro, has completed a new opera, "John Huss," which is said to be constructed on Wagnerian principles and to be rich in scenic effects.

Albert Niemann, the German tenor, will receive $18,000, besides having his traveling expenses and hotel bills paid, for his three months' engagement in this country for next season.

A FEW STATISTICS.

Chicago has had 500 burglaries in three months.

There are 725,000 more females than males in England.

We imported $10,000,000 worth of precious stones during 1884.

Over $18,000,000 has been expended on monuments in Massachusetts since 1861.

Ten thousand public schools receive financial support from the government of Mexico.

Arizona now contains about 600,000 cattle and horses. Cattle are listed for taxation at $15.50 per head.

The world now uses 40,000 barrels of coal oil daily, and America has enough on hand to keep up the supply for three years.

In the five-cent savings banks of Charleston, S. C., the colored people have $124,936.25 on deposit. The largest depositor has $6,000 to his credit.

The longest drought that ever occurred in this country is said to have taken place in 1762, when no rain fell from the 1st of May to the 1st of September.

The public schools of this country now employ over 300,000 teachers and pay them $62,000,000, a not very flattering annual average of a little more than $200 each.

It is estimated that the wheat crop of California will be worth $54,000,000 this year, as against $28,000,000 last year, and the barley crop will fetch $16,000,000, a gain of $7,000,000 over last year.

The Vatican library contains 24,000 manuscripts, of which 2,164 are Oriental, 3,052 Greek and 17,059 Latin. A complete catalogue is now, for the first time, being prepared and is to be published.

The Scientific American is responsible for the statement that the horse population of New York city is between 60,000 and 75,000, and that of London 200,000, of which 30,000 are used in public carriages, an equal number in omnibuses, and 10,000 in street cars.

CHURCH NOTES.

Japan has 168 Protestant churches, with a membership of 11,678.

Canon Bardsley, who died in England recently, left seven sons in the ministry.

Philadelphia claims that one-fifth of its population is enrolled in its Sunday schools.

Preparations are already being made for the next Pan-Presbyterian council, to be held in London in 1888.

The Protestants in Italy now number some 300 churches and mission stations, and it is estimated that 10,000 members have been converted from Romanism.

A newly formed church among the Zulus has the following among its regulations: "No member shall be permitted to drink the white man's grog or native beer, nor to touch it with his lips."

The Jewish population of Jerusalem is constantly increasing, and now numbers 18,000. This is the largest number that has lived in the sacred city at one time since the destruction by Titus in 70 A. D.

The Salvation Army in England is short of funds and resorted to the heroic method of fasting last week and contributing to the treasury the money thus saved from the weekly item of personal expenses.

The New York Observer thinks that an effort to bring all believers in Christ under one denominational banner is useless, while so many conscientious and consecrated Christians have such widely varying views of doctrine and discipline.

The Salvation Army, at its recent international congress in London, claimed to have 1,552 army corps and 3,602 officers, and to have held 28,200 weekly and 1,466,400 daily services, and to print its newspaper in nineteen different languages.

The Independent says that The Catholic Review ought to be ashamed of itself, after the slander has been so completely refuted, again to charge Martin Luther with the composition of that rollicking rhyme, "Who loves not wine, woman and song?"

A congress of evangelical workers is soon to be held in Mexico, representing all denominations now engaged in that fiercely contested field of labor. The Presbyterian, Methodist Episcopal and Methodist church south constitute the nucleus of the movement.

A correspondent of The Christian Union, writing from England, says that usually there is on the communion table in Nonconformist churches one cup tied with a blue ribbon. This is for those communicants who object to using any but unfermented wine.

VARIOUS PARAGRAPHS.

In Washington territory a Chinaman has been made a school teacher for the benefit of his countrymen.

The largest apartment house in the world is soon to be built in Chicago. It will be 318x213 feet, seven stories high, and will cost between $700,000 and $800,000.

A brick fell from the chimney of a church at Champaign during the Sunday services, and almost caused a panic, the congregation thinking another earthquake had broken loose.

The naval inspectors find over 100 American steamships hailing from New York alone, capable of running fourteen knots an hour, which would be of service as naval vessels of an inferior order upon an emergency.

A man approached a scissors grinder at Jackson, Mich., and asked how much he would charge to sharpen a pocket knife. "Ten cents," was the reply. The man then handed the scissors grinder a knife containing twenty-four blades.

The extent to which consumption can be prevented in a community if it is treated as a contagious disease is shown by the experience of Naples, where for over eighty years it was so treated, with precautions so rigid as to be inhumane, but with the result of practically stamping out the disease.

Louisville is taking great advancing strides socially. The Post says that the fashion this year will be "not for the gentlemen to escort the ladies to parties, but for the ladies to go accompanied by chaperones and meet the gentlemen at the house of their host." A club has been formed for promoting this innovation in southwestern society ways.

An Auburn young man banjo-struck was the cause of so much suffering to the gentleman that lodged in the adjoining room that the latter bought a vise, a saw and a file, and, according to the report, "that night when 'White Wings' sifted through the wall it was met by a sonata in E on the saw." The duel was kept up until a late hour, when the banjoist gave in.

THE LITTLE PEOPLE.

A bright little girl of 6 was out riding the other day with her father around Chestnut Hill reservoir. She was told that from the two lakes the water which she used at home was drawn. "Then one pond is hot water and the other cold, ain't it, papa?" was the inquiry.—Boston Globe.

"Mr. Featherly," inquired Bobby, while the dessert was being discussed, "is your dog's name Rome?" "No," replied Featherly," in some astonishment, "his name is Major. Why, Bobby?" "Because, pa told ma last night that you were down at the Eagle hotel, making Rome howl, and I s'posed he was talking about your dog."—Life.

"I wish I was a girl, but I'd want to be a big one," said little Tommy. "What do you want to be a big girl for, Tommy?" asked a gentleman who was present. "If I was a big girl I could wear a bustle, and then when the teacher put me over his knee I wouldn't mind it hardly any.—Texas Siftings.

"Mamma," asked a congressman's child of his mother, "what are these 'ante-bellum times' I hear papa talking about?" "They are the times before the war, my child." The child was quiet for a full minute. "Oh, I see," he said, "that was before aunty married uncle, wasn't it?" The mother restrained the child from further violence.—Washington Critic.

A Washington avenue boy was left with a neighbor while his parents went to see a parade, and overheard the following gossip about them: "It was a love match. They are a most united couple. After all, the right way is to marry for love——." Here the boy interrupted with "Mamma married papa 'cause she was a fool; she said so!"—Saturday Evening Spectator.

The other day, as the Historian was riding down town after some archæological researches at the South End, a carriage in which there were two sisters of charity drove by. There were two small boys on the opposite seat of the car, and one of them asked the other: "What are they, anyway?" "Why, they're sisters of chariot, don't you know?" "What are sisters of chariot?" "Oh, they're nuns—don't see anybody, you know!"—Boston Record.

A little 3-year-old miss who had been in the habit of hearing her father get rid of a troublesome party by saying, "He ought to be killed," is, with her mother, visiting in a neighboring state. Her hostess was lecturing her little son for some mischeivous behavior and finally said: "Bob, I don't know what I will do with you." The little miss was an interested spectator and volunteered her advice by saying: "Why don't you kill him?" —Fall River Herald.

MUSICAL NOTES.

Verdi's new opera, "Iago," will first see the light at the Theatre Comique, Paris.

Joachim is to give a series of concerts throughout the southern part of Germany.

Adolph Muller, who died recently in Vienna, was the author of 4,773 musical works.

Hubert Wilke, the well known singer, is lying seriously ill with typhoid fever at Louisville, Ky.

Paganini is said to have played on three strings of the violin simultaneously without cutting the bridge, as Ole Bull did.

Mr. A. Victor Benham, the young American pianist who has been winning laurels abroad, will give a series of piano forte recitals in the principal cities of the United States during the coming season.

The readers of "Ben Hur" will be glad to know that the sweet song of the fair Egyptian, "Wake Not, but Hear Me, Love," has been set to music by George L. Osgood and published by Oliver Ditson & Co.

The Chinese are said to have had a government superintendence of music 4,000 years ago. The number of dramatic authors and plays under the Youen dynasty alone was 81, besides those who wrote 448 anonymous plays.

J. H. Mercer would especially recommend to the ladies Acker's Dyspepsia Tablets. As a laxative they have no equal. They are guaranteed to cure Chronic Constipation, Dyspepsia, and all diseases arising from a deranged stomach. With a free use of the Tablets, Sick Headache is impossible.

After a thorough test J. H. Mercer most positively asserts that Acker's English Remedy is the best medicine for asthma, croup, coughs, whooping cough and all lung troubles that can be found. Ask him about it, for he fully guarantees it.

Chick-chick-er-re-kee

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR IT.
ASK YOUR DRUGGIST FOR IT.

Prevents Roup, Prevents Gapes, Prevents Cholera, Prevents Egg-Eating, Prevents Laying Soft Eggs, Makes Hens Lay.

IT IS NO POWDER. IT IS NO MEDICINE.

It Sells for Five Cents Per Pound, in Boxes.

Chick-chick-er-re-kee (poultry food and preventive of disease for poultry), the great egg food, produces eggs prodigiously and is good for the health of the fowling. It is the first article of its kind ever Patented in the United States, Canada and England. Try it. It costs only five cents per pound. It is no powder. Chickens will eat it. That ought to convince you that it is good. If your Grocer, Druggist, Hardware or Country Storekeeper will not get it for you, send me one dollar, and I will ship you a twenty-pound box by freight, or one hundred pounds for five dollars. A large box will cost you no more freight than a small box. Attend to your poultry, if you want to make a profit out of them, just the same as you attend to your land. Unless you manure your land it will not pay you. Just so with poultry; you must give them something besides feed. They must have material to answer for grinders, and material for the egg. If you feed Chick-chick-er-re-kee (egg food) every day you will never have any sick chickens, and your hens will lay eggs when otherwise they would not. You will never do without it after a fair trial. Do not pay twenty-five or fifty cents a pound for medicine to feed your poultry when you can get a better article from your storekeeper at five cents a pound. Don't be a clam; try it. CHURCH NOTES.

Rome has twenty-one Protestant churches.

The 395,067 Buddhist temples in Japan in 1714 have decreased to 57,824. Many of these are in ruins.

During the past twelve years the number of Christian converts in Japan has increased from 150 to 10,000.

The great revival among the Presbyterian missions in Persia continues. Every Sabbath 60,000 people attend preaching.

Professor Stewart, of Liberia, says it is estimated that for every missionary that goes to Africa 70,000 gallons of liquor are sent to that country.

The bey of Tunis has given a choice site of land, worth $6,000, to a small Protestant congregation there, on which they intend to build a church.

Hingham, Mass., has not only the oldest church in America, but the oldest sexton, he having served in that capacity for fifty-six consecutive years.

The Christian population of Madras, India, in ten years, 1871-1881, was found to have increased 165,662, and still the work continues to be encouraging.

A Chinese Young Men's Christian association building has been erected at Honolulu, at a cost of $5,000. About $2,000 was contributed by the Chinese themselves.

There are at present thirty-three foreign cardinals and exactly the same number of Italian cardinals. This never occurred before in the history of the Catholic church.

The number of Japanese in the mikado's empire professing the Protestant faith is now 11,602, showing an increase during the past year of 2,706. The total number of churches is 151.

At Friesburg, in Baden, a foreign missionary society has been founded by 100 of the most prominent Rationalists for the propagation of their doctrines among the high-caste people of India, Japan and China.

PERSONAL.

Neal Dow is 82 years old.

Senator Edmunds is angling in Maine.

Frederick Douglass has gone to Europe.

President Cleveland is steadily gaining in weight.

Henry Watterson is to start homeward on Oct. 23.

Chief Justice Waite is back from his long Alaskan trip.

Senator and Mrs. Logan have returned to their home in Illinois.

It took Gen. Miles just twenty-one weeks to tucker Geronimo out.

Michael Davitt intends to visit California before returning to England.

Senators Hampton, Vest and Kenna are persistent and successful anglers.

Valentine Baker Pasha, who has been visiting in England, has returned to Egypt.

Remenyi, the violinist, is charming the Rajahs of India with his wonderful playing.

Senator Evarts has recovered almost entirely from the effects of his recent accident.

William R. Morrison, of free trade fame, has returned to Washington from his Illinois home.

Senator Logan made twelve speeches in one day while looking at the natural beauties of Oregon.

Mr. Lawrence Barrett contradicts the report that Mr. Edwin Booth was to marry his eldest daughter.

A correspondent says that since the election Mr. Gladstone has been gaining in weight and looks stouter and stronger.

Gen. Francis A. Walker has gone to California again for three weeks, on business connected with educational affairs.

Henry M. Stanley will undoubtedly be the most popular foreign lecturer who will visit these shores during the coming season.

Charles Townsend, of the Smithsonian institution, is going to British Honduras to study the natural history of that country.

Congressman Crapo is entertaining Jushu Rinch Kuki, the Japanese minister to this country, at his home in New Bedford, Mass.

Minister Cox will arrive here during the second week in October. Whether he expects to return to Constantinople is not stated.

Miles Ross is reported as saying that he wouldn't go to congress again if a certificate of election and $10,000 were offered him on a platter.

The Earl of Lonsdale, whose scandalous conduct has given him an international reputation, is the patron of forty-one livings of the English church.

Another "old public functionary" has been discovered—the Hon. Alex. H. H. Stuart, of Virginia, an octogenarian, who was a member of Filmore's cabinet.

Rev. George O. Barnes, the mountain evangelist of Kentucky, says that he has made his trip around the world with his wife, son and two daughters entirely on faith.

John C. Eno is not happy in exile. The doors of the leading families at Quebec are closed against him. He would like to compromise with his New York creditors.

The hat size of Mr. Gladstone is 7⅜, Lord J. Russell, 7⅛; John Bright, 7⅛; Lord Selborne, 7⅝; the Prince of Wales, 7. The Scotch head is larger than the English.

The king of Portugal hates the French republic so much that he will not cross the French territory to visit his friends and relatives in Germany, but goes thither by water.

It is said that Professor Chevreul, the centenarian savant, never used wine or tobacco, but drank coffee and tea and a large amount of milk and took a cold bath every day in the year.

Professor Richard A. Proctor says that earthquakes show the earth to be still in its infancy and that tens of thousands of years will pass before the beginning of the end is seen.

Mr. Edmund Russell, the American "trustee of beauty," gives this advice: "Never stand under a light. It brings out lines and makes even the young look careworn and lined."

Whitelaw Reid and his father-in-law, D. O. Mills, have been surveying the Owens river valley, in California, near Reno, with a view to taking up 20,000 acres of land for a wine and grape growing colony.

The late Archbishop of Canterbury once remonstrated with a celebrated Parsee for worshiping the sun. "Ah! your grace," was the reply, "you should see it once"—a pretty good hit at English fog—and prejudice.

Mr. Whistler, the London artist, habitually wears in one eye a glass without a rim. As this glass is likely at any time to fall on the pavement and break, Mr. Whistler carries around a supply of spare glasses in his vest pocket.

A Connecticut man just returned from England says that his best friends would hardly recognize ex-Governor, now Consul General, Tom Waller. He has had his handsome, bushy and wavy hair cut down almost to a fighting clip.

"Every day at 1 o'clock $300,000,000 sit around a little mahogany table in an upper room in the Western Union building and eat a plain but substantial lunch," says The New York Sun. "The millions belong to Jay Gould, Sidney Dillon, Russell Sage and ex-Governor Alonzo B. Cornell. All were country boys and wore shoes only on Sunday."

The Rev. Dr. Joseph Parker, of the City Temple church, London, who has been entertaining Mr. Beecher, writes to The Advance, "You must live with Mr. Beecher to understand him. Before he came to be my guest I had viewed him with the wonder which may be bestowed upon a planist; now that we have lived together, I accord him the affection which is due to the tenderest manliness and the most winsome modesty."

CURIOUS FACTS.

A single oyster opened the other day by a Fair Haven, Conn., man contained 163 pearls.

A Bridgeport, Conn., man recently swallowed three shoe buttons for pills by mistake. He is very near death.

A Dakato farmer, grumbling at the poor outlook for wheat in the early summer, offered to give his wife all the wheat he would have over 1,500 bushels. He threshed a trifle over 2,500 bushels, and the wife is going to have a new black silk dress.

A little newsboy of Orlando, Fla., being suddenly told of his father's death, dropped his papers and hurried home. A citizen, picking them up, sold them through the town, telling the circumstances, and realized $70, some of them fetching $5 apiece.

A Brooklyn lady at Greenwood lake put her baby on a bed to sleep, and placed an open trunk half full of clothing by the bedside that the child might fall into it if it fell from the bed. The child did fall from the bed into the trunk, but when the mother found it it was dead. It had tangled its head in the clothing and smothered.
